A non-profit organization and a neutral arena, focusing on developing partnerships and new solutions for a society with the ability to maintain its functionality and quickly recover from stresses and shocks. Simply a more resilient society.
Urban Resilience when you talk to a "Swede"

Urban Resilience is the ability to maintain and renew functionality under pressure, regardless of whether these pressures are chronic or sudden and shocking.
Inclusive and participatory disaster risk management in cities

A round table discussion on how to connect the organized response from society with the voluntary and self organized society

• Inspirational short presentations
• 3 steps discussion
• Summarize and conclusions
Round table
Step 1

• How does the inspirational presentations relate to your own experiences?

• What do you think about the trend, will we see more of this?
Round table
Step 2

• Are self organized citizens a challenge or a resource, when dealing with risks, emergencies and pressures?

• What are the challenges? –both for the organized and for the non organized society.

• What would it mean if we could utilize and take the full advantage of the volunteers and the self organized society?
Round table
Step 3

• What is needed to take the full advantage of self organized citizens?

• How shall we proceed to develop the capacity to utilize the full potential in society when dealing with risk, emergencies and pressures?

• Who shall be involved and help us to develop our societal ability to better cope with future pressures on society?
Thank you for sharing your experiences and thoughts with us all!

Let us stay in touch!

info@resilientregions.org

www.resilientregions.org